

SOLUTION

In Prolog, facts can be used to store database information.

A predicate such as `person (Name, DOB)` stores the name and date of birth.

The database can then be queried using the person's name.